

NEW YORK FOR HILL.

The elections for delegates from New York to the Chicago Convention indicate that David B. Hill will have the whole 72 votes of the State for President, if he desires the nomination for the position. The country convention are all declaring their allegiance to Hill. The Chicago Convention adopted resolutions reaffirming confidence in and earnestly requesting the representatives of New York in the National Convention to nominate him. In the Schenectady County Convention all the delegates but five declared for Hill. The convention, which was composed largely of farmers, was very enthusiastic, and the speeches made were unanimous in their expressions of approval for Hill. The Rockland County Convention also endorsed Hill, who was almost the unanimous choice of the delegates for President. In Oneida county the Hill men carried everything by a large majority.

While there is scarcely a doubt of Hill's ability to carry New York, there is yet some doubt as to whether he is the man to nominate for President. He has declared for free coinage on more than one occasion, yet, he being from an Eastern State, some of the sincere friends of silver are somewhat suspicious of him. That he will have opportunity in the near future to prove his sincerity there is scarcely room to doubt, as Stewart's bill will come before the Senate, and if his vote is recorded in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, he should have the Nevada delegation in the National Convention. Cleveland is now virtually out of the Presidential contest. He cannot carry his own State and his views on silver preclude the possibility of his getting more than a few scattered votes from the West and South.

It will be now in order for our Republican friends, who, to take their word for it, have known for some time that the free coinage Democratic would without exception, advocate Cleveland's election, commences landing that gentleman and trade their guns on Hill, or any other free coinage candidate that may be in the field for President.

OUT OF THE FIGHT.

Secretary Blaine announces, in a letter to the Chairman of the National Republican Committee, that he is not a candidate for the Presidency, and that his name will not go before the convention. Mr. Blaine assigns no cause for his determination. It may be that it is owing to ill health, or the belief he could not be elected, but that can only be surmised. It says he is thankful to those who tender him their support, and expresses the hope that they will make an earnest effort in the approaching contest, which is rendered especially important by reason of the industrial and financial policy of the Government being at stake.

Mr. Blaine doubtless means that the Administration is the Government. This Government would exist whether Harrison is President or not. The Government comprises three Departments—the Executive, Legislative and Judicial. What the financial and industrial policy of the Judicial Department is, has not been proclaimed, and what the financial and industrial policy of the Legislative Department is, has not been determined by the present Congress. The policy of the Executive Department, however, is known. It opposes the double standard and endorses a free trade, or reciprocity, as Republicans politely term it, and also a protective policy, though the principles are irreconcilable with each other. Mr. Blaine said the McKinley bill does not make a market for one more barrel of pork or bushel of wheat, and he vehemently denounced the bill before the Committee on Ways and Means. In his letter, published during the Ohio campaign, he declared for the gold standard, and now he wants those who desired his nomination to uphold this view.

What a back-squaring principle, and glaring display of inconsistency it is for those who pretend to favor the free coinage of silver to endorse the financial policy of the Government, as Mr. Blaine terms it.

POSTOFFICE BUILDINGS.

Representative Davis of Kansas has introduced a bill authorizing the erection of a building for a postoffice and public library in every town of more than three thousand inhabitants in the United States and in places of less population where such place is the county seat, such building to cost not less than $5,000 nor more than $50,000.

This is a sensible suggestion. There is a demand for more money in all parts of the country and the provisions of this bill would partially supply it. Such buildings are a public necessity and their erection would give employment to a great many persons whose wages would be paid direct from the National Treasury and in that way increase the circulation.

Millions of dollars are annually spent on war vessels, which, as Senator Ingalls says, may be useless a year hence. This expenditure benefits the great seaport cities, but not the interior States. A good public building, suitable for a postoffice and library, would be a necessity in every town and the expenditure of the money necessary for its erection would distribute many millions of dollars equitably through out the whole country. No better method of getting more money in circulation, except it be free coinage, has been suggested.

Let two or three hundred millions of dollars be appropriated by Congress for the erection of a suitable postoffice building in every town in the United States and the amount of money thus put in circulation will find its way to the pockets of the artisans and laborers for and in furnishing the material employed in erecting such buildings. Every citizen will willingly pay his proportion of the tax necessary for such expenditure because the money will be equitably distributed throughout the land, and will benefit the workmen instead of the monopolists.

A gold bug Democratic national factor, elected to Congress in Ohio, attempted last week to get a caucus of Democratic Representatives to declare against free coinage, but failed to do so. He now writes an anti-silver letter, and because he does so, some unreasonable gold bug papers think the Democratic party is committed against free coinage. Harter in his letter says "that freedom of judgment in such matters belongs to every citizen." He exercises this freedom and is probably paid for doing so by the gold bugs. Representative Bland, whose opinion on the silver question is at least as good as that of Harter, says the House of Representatives will pass a free coinage bill.

The Denver Mining and Exchange Journal says "if the United States will go ahead and re-establish free coinage, the other nations of the earth will not be slow in following. This country doesn't need an international congress to place silver on a parity with gold; it does need a few legislators and an executive who have the moral courage to accede to the demands of the people."

News of Importance From Home and Abroad.

The Hale & Norcross Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 8.—W. E. Hale, a book keeper for A. Hayward, gave some interesting figures drawn from Hayward's books, with which H. M. Levy's name is closely connected. The journal showed that Levy collected regularly his one-eighth of the profits of the Nevada mill.

On January 23, 1890, a check was drawn by Mr. Sell payable to himself in the sum of $9,821.45, which represented a portion of Levy's profits for a few months previously. On May 15, 1890, Levy received $6,465.53 and on November 2, 1890, a check was drawn by Hayward, through E. Williams for $9,938.34. The indorsement shows that this money was received by Levy on December 14. On December 12, Hayward drew another check for $1,647.88 in his own favor, but the journal shows that Levy was entitled to just that amount on that day. On March 11, 1890, another check for $916.79 was signed by Mr. Hayward and the money paid to Levy. The total amount paid to Levy between January 23, 1890, and March 11, 1890, was $21,819.64. Mr. Hayward's books showed that he had transactions on account of the Nevada Mill and Mining Company, in 1890, aggregated over $300,000.

This closed the testimony for plaintiff and the defense will introduce evidence to-day.

Governor Markham Advises the Miners' Committee.

SACRAMENTO, February 8.—The delegates and alternates appointed by the Miners' Convention to visit Washington and involve the aid of Congress in devising means by which hydraulic mining may be resumed without detriment to the rivers and valleys, called on the Governor to-day. The visit was made by the committee in order to obtain advice from the Governor as how best to proceed in reaching the National Capital. The Governor advised the committee to see and talk with William of Indiana, "the great old chief," and also to consult with McKenna of California. He did not know that it is worth while to see Mr. McKnelly, as he is no Governor of Ohio, and engrossed in the affairs of that State.

Hon. Niles said that he became satisfied while in Denver that the California miners will have the support of the Colorado Congressional delegation.

The Governor informed the committee that he was willing to do anything possible for them and urged them not to be afraid to telegraph if they thought he could give them any aid by information or advice.

The miners went to San Francisco this afternoon and will leave for Washington to-morrow.

A Terrible Fire.

New York, February 8.—The latest estimate in the Hotel Royal fire, which started early yesterday morning, is five dead, twenty-four injured, sixty-nine missing and eighty-one saved. This afternoon workmen found a foot and part of a leg in the mine, and at 5.30 a body was found, but it was so badly burned as to be unrecognizable. At 6.15 the eleventh body was brought to view; its legs were almost gone, and the arms had been burned off and the head crushed. In the upper jaw a set of false teeth were found which looked like those of a woman. Hundreds of men are at work on the debris, and will be kept going night and day until they have completed the work of clearing away the ruins, which, in all probability, will take three days. One of the bodies recovered to-day has been identified as that of A. A. Townsend of New Haven, Connecticut.

Decision Reversed.

BORNE CITY, February 8.—The Supreme Court of Idaho to-day decided the case of the Mammoth Claim vs. The Luckawanna Mine at Warbler, Idaho, in favor of the Mammoth Claim, reversing the judgment rendered by Judge Sweet on a verdict of a jury in August, 1890. This suit involves the ground claimed by the Sullivan Mine and is adverse to the Bunker Hill and in favor of John M. Burke and his company, owners in the Mammoth Claim.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—The Senate resumed the consideration of the public printing bill, adjourning before the discussion of the various sections of the bill were finished.

Not in the Fight.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—The following, which explains itself, has been given to the public:

WASHINGTON, February 6, 1892.
Hon. J. C. Clarkson, Chairman of the Republican National Committee.—My Dear Sir:—I am not a candidate for the Presidency, and my name will not go before the Republican National Convention for nomination. I make this announcement in due season. To those who have tendered me their support, I owe sincere thanks, and am most grateful for their confidence. They will, I am sure, make an earnest effort in the approaching contest, which is rendered especially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision on these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence.
Very sincerely yours,
JAMES G. BLAINE.

The Behring Sea Controversy.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—Meetings were held for the purpose of comparing the results of the investigations of the Commissioners independently last summer with a view to the formulation of a joint report, which may be accepted by the Board of Arbitration, when appointed, as final on all questions touching the character and extent of the sealing industry. Meanwhile arrangements are being made for the settlement of the question of jurisdiction over Behring Sea by arbitration, and it is expected a treaty to that effect between Great Britain and the United States will be in shape for submission to the Senate for ratification next week.

Governor Boyd Assumes His Duties.

LINCOLN, Neb., February 8.—Governor Boyd arrived and took possession of his office to-day. When entry was made to the Executive apartments, Governor Thayer advanced and extended his hand, remarking: "How do you do Governor?" Boyd bowed, but ignored the outstretched member. Thayer flushed slightly and asked if he could be of any assistance and, receiving a negative reply, left the room. Governor Boyd, being asked if he intended to make a clean sweep of Republican office holders, admitted such an action was in contemplation. A number of Thayer's supporters have already tendered their resignations.

House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—The House to-day adopted a resolution ordering the Appropriations Committee to investigate the expenditures of the World's Columbian Exposition Commission. While the World's Fair Committee met defeat in its demand that all investigations should be conducted by it, many maintain that this defeat does not indicate that a like fate awaits the bill to be introduced making an appropriation of $4,000,000 for the benefit of the World's Fair.

The Speaker then appointed several committees, after which the House adjourned.

A Bold Embezzler.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 8.—It was stated to-day that Richard Hyer, wanted in New Jersey for embezzlement, and who escaped from Detective Dalton's custody while en route East some days ago, visited the county jail in Oakland Friday last and paid his respects to a number of acquaintances there, and the police officials did not molest him, not knowing but it was proper for him to be at large. It is believed Hyer has left here on some steamer bound to Australia.

The Miners' Association.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 8.—A delegation from the Miners' Association of California left for Sacramento this morning to confer with Governor Markham. A portion of the delegation will leave for the National Capital to-morrow night, and not on Friday, as previously reported.

Moore Hopkins' Will.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 8.—The will of the late Moses Hopkins was filed for probate to-day. He left an estate valued at $1,000,000, three-fourths of which was to his widow and the rest to be divided among relatives. He inherited his wealth from his brother, the late Mark Hopkins.

Hotel at Summit Burned.

SUMMIT, Cal., February 8.—A fire occurred here at 1.30 this afternoon. Goulden's Hotel was completely destroyed and nothing saved. The snow sheds were slightly burned. No one was injured seriously, though a few were slightly hurt. The fire is still burning.

Favors the Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, February 8.—The Court of Claims to-day affirmed the right of the Postmaster General to annul contracts made without his approval.

Woman's Line Broken.

It is understood that at the luncheon given at the Hotel Royal, the ex-claimants as well as the ex-claimants in the happy circumstances, broken on the part of the line. This is especially true of the woman of the exchange, which are increased by women solely for women. It is a concession to a new era that a woman entering and carrying on a life of labor to pay for a husband more than can be consumed. One exquisite, a half serving of salad dressed with oil and vinegar, the one of the way a woman adjusts her bill to her appetite.—New York Times.

How Man and Nature Use Carbon.

Man uses carbon for the same purposes as nature uses it. He employs it in such various ways, but he in the crude form of coal, for which, also, he produces for other purposes different useful products, artistically applicable as coloring substances, in which art, as he may say, find out, he is following some natural design.—Longman's Magazine.

Names on Toothpicks.

Some of the principal hotel and restaurants on the Continent and in the United States require their addresses printed on the quill toothpicks used by their guests, and in Spain and her colonies it is customary to have all kinds of gallant devices or mottoes impressed on them by a machine.—Chambers' Journal.

A Cheap Dinner.

Venice is a cheap city, especially if you dine with the people in the fish markets of the Grand Canal. There you get a slice of carp, a portion of trout as a garnish, and a small portion of bread as a garnish. An other penny thicker for a penny. An other penny will, if fish is taken into account, as it generally is, buy a plateful of very palatable fry. Add to this a third penny for half a liter of wine, and the bill is told.

There is no doubting the nutrition in such a meal. The faces of the clients of the shops in the Street of the Smiths are plump and healthy, and the clients themselves are not faintly impatient to be served when there is a crush, as there often is of an evening, when such work as Venice does is mostly at an end.—All the Year Round.

How Man and Nature Use Gases.

Man uses the same elementary gases as nature does, with others that she does not employ with the same intention. Both use oxygen for sustaining combustion, but nature uses it systematically for construction, while man does not. Man takes advantage of nitrogen for construction, and oxygen takes the place of it in the way which nitrogen, though it is very common, but she does more, she uses it in a way constructive as well as in a way destructive, as art man has not attained to.—Longman's Magazine.

Shut out of the Venetian.

The two, Lord and front of all offenders, was the Venetian himself. He speaks of a man in the reign of John, whereas a man was not born until a century after John. It is of putting in the time of Henry II. of which and striking looks at that in the time of Julius Caesar, he makes Hector quote Aristotle, and Coriolanus refer to cuts and Alexander; he introduces a billiard table into Cleopatra's palace; he drowns Belshazzar with a sea coast, and makes Belshazzar an island.—Belford's Monthly.

STOLEN PROPERTY.

Jewels Taken From A Prisoner.

Sheriff Fellows of Humboldt county writes that he has taken the following property from a prisoner:

One pair bracelets, braided on solid band, eight strands in braid, four strands silver and four gold; two pendants (one silver, one gold) with sliding ball on pendant chains for fastening.

One six-strand gold wire braided bracelet; miniature gold pallock with key attached to chain.

One child's gold ring with two very small turquoise stones; stone in center missing.

One lady's 14k gold ring, moonstone in center, four small turquoise surrounding moonstone.

One lady's small chatelaine watch, No. 337,436; letters "J. H." scratched on inside cap; small plated chain about 14 inches long attached. (This is only a portion of the chain.)

There is a message at the Western Union Telegraph Office for Judge Boardman.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELIA A. An exchange says few people know the color of pure gold, as the metal is seldom seen except when heavily alloyed, which renders it redder in color than when in its natural state. The Ural mountains gold is the reddest of all in its natural state; Australian gold is redder than that of California while the gold obtained from the placers is redder than that obtained from the quartz. What causes these different colors is one of the mysteries of metallurgy.

CONGRESS

At Last Takes Action.

A bill has been introduced at Washington requiring all baking powders containing alum and ammonia to be so labeled. This is a step in the right direction, and has been long foreshadowed by the action of State Legislatures, Boards of Health, Food Commissioners, etc., in this matter. The bill affords needed protection to the public, for the evidence as to the injurious effects of alum and ammonia is very heavy; but it will nevertheless be fought bitterly by the manufacturers whom it affects who are accustomed to sell their goods as "pure Cream of Tartar," "absolutely pure," etc.

The bill is something needed. If a maker uses a drug in his powder, the name of which he does not want on his label, it is prima facie evidence that there is something wrong. We hope the subject will be vigorously prosecuted all over the country, not only as regards baking powder, but all other food adulterations.

This bill may incidentally benefit the smokers of pure articles, but if it should, this is only an additional point in its favor.

THE LEAP YEAR BALL.

A Correspondent of the Carson Appeal Describes Some of the Leading Characters.

A correspondent of the Carson Appeal, gives a lively description of the leap year party at Armory Hall last week, from which the following is an extract:

GRAND MARCH, SUPPER, ETC.

The Leap Year dance given at Reno by the ladies, in Armory Hall Thursday evening was a very brilliant and select affair. The interior of the hall was hardly recognizable through the elaborate and tasteful decorations. It fairly bloomed with plants and evergreens and the general effect was delightful.

The grand march began promptly at 9 o'clock, the ladies carried the engagement cards, selected their partners and had everything their own way. The floor managers were Mrs. Jessie Lewis, Mrs. Eva Jamison and Miss French.

The programme of dance was faithfully carried out to the end and in genuine leap year style. The best dancers were called for every dance and the unskilled were left to bloom along the wall. The gentlemen were very sweet-tempered and graceful, and no fault could be found with the gallant and gentlemanly bearing of the ladies.

The supper was served at about half an hour short of midnight and embraced exceedingly dainty and appropriate refreshments.

The greatest share of credit for the success of the leap year party is due to the general managers; they worked unceasingly for success and they deserve the thanks of all for the perfection of their arrangements. They are, on all sides, showered with compliments and deserve them. These leap year potpourris will initiate the gentlemen into the delicacies of entertainment.

STRIKING COSTUMES.

It would be an injustice to the gentlemen not to mention some of the brilliant and striking costumes of this occasion; space will permit only a mention of the more prominent ones and the most striking part of their costumes.

That stately and striking brunette, Senator Osborne, wore patent leather boots, ribbed broadcloth cut in baggies and rucked at the top in mantelet style, with linen collar trimmings and several other things.

Bright and winning Professor Thurlell never appeared better. He wore a vest cut toge, with chenille fringe and "Lost Rose" perfume. His graceful figure, floating in the dance, caused many hearts to ache.

Fair General Irish had his coat kilted with body and tunic in one, and hair neatly combed. His face was neatly wreathed in smiles, and his bashfulness showed that he is most at home with the telescope.

That petite and piquant little blonde, Professor Phillips, had his jacket cut with dolman sleeves a la Pompea and fastened in front with a brass bird in butt hole. During the intervals of the dance he prattled sweetly with his partner as to the uncertainties of life.

Dr. Bergstein attracted general admiration. His side whiskers were dressed with a tuft of feathers, three bows of satin ribbon and a bunch of forget-me-nots. The entire effect was stately and picturesque.

Henry Rule wore a seaweed corset, with a square body and satin rucking. He also wore a celluloid collar and Silver City engagement ring.

Professor Lewers, petite and sparkling, wore a white fowered coat with embroidered bangles, and Spanish lace on the tail. He, perhaps, was "the ball of the ball room."

Senator Foley, oh, my! Had his shirt front cut with inverted folds with a plastron edged with velvet and bol shirt particulars.

The graceful costume of Mr. Manning was generally admired. His hair was arranged with puffings at each side; the effect was perfectly charming.

Mr. Frank Barnes appeared in full uniform as a representative of the Beck Combination Flour Company. His marshal bearing showed a brave soldier who had run the dangers of a thousand ball rooms and passed unharmed through showers of Cupid's arrows.

Mr. Robert Fulton was attired in a lovely toilet of eorn. In fact, he never felt better in his life. The observed of all observers, his eyes beamed with delight as he described to those less favored the exquisite time he at the "Leap Year ball."

Return Leap Year Party.

The gentlemen who attended the Leap Year party given by the ladies of Rebekah Degree Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Reno, January 20th, last, will give a return party on February 26th. It is hoped that every gentleman invited by the ladies will return the compliment, and that every lady who attended the former party will grace the next with her presence. COMMITTEE.

You may bridle the appetite but you cannot bribe the liver to do its work well. You must be honest with it, help it along a little now and then with a dose of Simmons' Liver Regulator. The liver becomes sluggish sometimes and needs some stimulation to keep off those attacks of indigestion and biliousness. A good active liver promotes digestion and prevents Malisla.

A LEGAL DOCUMENT.

The Beebe-Barbour Company Present a Good Play to a Good House.

A good audience was at the Opera House last evening to greet the opening engagement of the Beebe-Barbour Company in a Legal Document. The play on the whole was good, and called forth frequent applause and much laughter. There was just enough plot to the play to make a framework for the introduction of a number of eccentric and humorous characters which, with little Dot, insured its success. As a play it was chiefly remarkable in the fact that it had no villain, and was disappointing in the fact that there was no blue-coated and brass-buttoned policeman to wind up the last act by clapping handcuffs on the offender and lead him away to the calaboose just as the heroine faints in the arms of her restored lover. But villain or no, the play was good. The performance of little Grace Beebe as the blind sister, and her singing won the hearts completely of the audience. She is incomparably the best child actress that has ever appeared here, and makes a sweet and artless picture of childish grace and innocence in her every attitude on the stage.

Edwin Barbour as the attorney Ignatius Foxglove, whose eccentricities were the delight of the audience, sustained his character well, as also W. W. Cozig in Tommy Littlejohn, the slow witted domestic, who some how got there just the same. The other members of the company were a good although their parts did not give them much opportunity for effect as theirs were the essentials to the plot.

The company will present to-night "Black Diamond" and are deserving of a large house.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Richard Morris Hunt, Architect of the Administration Building.

The Administration Building at Chicago will be a poem in architecture, and Richard M. Hunt is its inventor. He is well known to the intelligent public, as the president of the American League of Architects, and as a master spirit in his profession. Mr. Hunt was born in Vermont. When he was fifteen he went to Europe for study and the intellectual advantages of travel. While abroad he decided to be an architect. He became a student at the School of Fine Arts in Paris, and under the eminent Hector Lefuel. Subsequent extensive travel was undertaken with the view of improvement in his art. When he returned to Paris Lefuel, who was architect to Napoleon III, appointed him an inspector of public works to his bureau. Mr. Hunt returned to America in 1855. He was engaged on the Capitol extension in Washington for a time. For many years his name has been associated with the best architectural work done in the United States. He owns a fine library of architectural works and a valuable collection of objects of art. Both will be placed in a public institution after his death.

A CURE FOR DIPHTHERIA.

A correspondent writing to one of the San Francisco papers says: "A few years ago when diphtheria was raging in England, a gentleman accompanied the celebrated Dr. Field on his rounds to witness the so-called wonderful cures which he performed while the patients of other physicians were dying on all sides.

"The remedy to be so rapid must be simple. All he took with him was flour of sulphur and a quill, and with these he cured every patient, without exception. He put a tablespoonful of flour of brimstone into a wine-glass of water and stirred it with his finger instead of a spoon, as the sulphur does not amalgamate with water. When the sulphur was well mixed he gave it as a gargle, and in ten minutes the patient was out of danger. Brimstone kills every species of fungus in a man or beast in ten minutes."

"Instead of spitting out the gargle, he recommended the swallowing of it. In extreme cases, in which he had been called just in the nick of time when the fungus was too nearly closed to allow the gargle, he blew the sulphur through a quill into the throat, and after the fungus had shrunk to allow of it, then gave the gargle. He never lost a patient from diphtheria. If a patient cannot gargle, take a live coal, put it on a shovel and sprinkle a spoonful of flour of sulphur upon it; let the sufferer inhale the fumes and the fungus will die."

The Palace Hotel, which is well and favorably known to every old Nevada, is being conducted as usual by that veteran landlord, Al White, who spares neither pains nor purse to provide for the comfort and convenience of guests.
